About Meghan

Meghan Eliason is a dynamic leadership coach with a decade of experience as an elementary school principal, where she inspired and guided young minds. Renowned for her infectious energy and can-do attitude, Meghan adopts an in-the-trenches approach to leadership. After transitioning to a role as a leadership development coach, she continues to engage actively with both educators and leaders in the construction industry, fostering growth and collaboration.

She takes a systems-based approach by focusing on the interconnectedness of all elements within an organization. She strives to provide tailored solutions that align with each client's unique needs. A strong advocate for mentoring and training, Meghan has developed a variety of professional development programs that have enriched the capabilities of the teams she has served. She is particularly skilled in content development, producing a range of resources including written communication, podcast summaries, and workshop materials such as engaging presentations and workbooks. Through her innovative leadership style and commitment to excellence, Meghan Eliason continues to make a significant impact in both education and the infrastructure sector, shaping the future of learning and development for the next generation.
